

PROJECT Success

New Start—Success Plan

In the time you have been away from Illinois State, you have acquired new skills and discovered existing strengths as a result of your life experiences. Additionally, you have probably identified areas of potential growth. Be it through work, education, or personal circumstance, it is important for you to take the time to formally identify personal changes and challenges which can help you succeed as you work towards completing your degree.

1. List several skills you have developed, or strengths you have uncovered, during your time away from Illinois State. These can include items such as improved time management, identification/clarification of career goals, or anything that you believe is pertinent.

2. List any challenges you believe may impede your ability to achieve academic success. These can include items such as organizational skills, assertiveness, or anything you believe is significant.

3. How will you use your strengths and skills to address any challenges you face?

Given the above information, set three goals that will help you achieve academic success this semester:

Goal	Tasks to complete goal	Deadline for completing tasks
Goal 1
Goal 2
Goal 3

Below, please list the campus resources you intend to utilize this semester which will help you achieve academic success.
